The Chinese lunar calendar divides the year into 24 solar terms. Grain in Ear, (Chinese: 芒种), the 9th solar term, begins on June 5 this year and ends on June 20.

The arrival of Grain in Ear signifies the ripening of crops such as barley and wheat. It is also a busy period for farmers.

The solar terms were created thousands of years ago to guide agricultural production. The culture remains useful today to guide people's lives through special foods, cultural ceremonies and healthy living tips that correspond with each term.

The following are seven things you need to know about Grain in Ear.

Editor's Note: Douban, a Chinese film and TV review platform, has become one of the key drivers for the success of TV series.

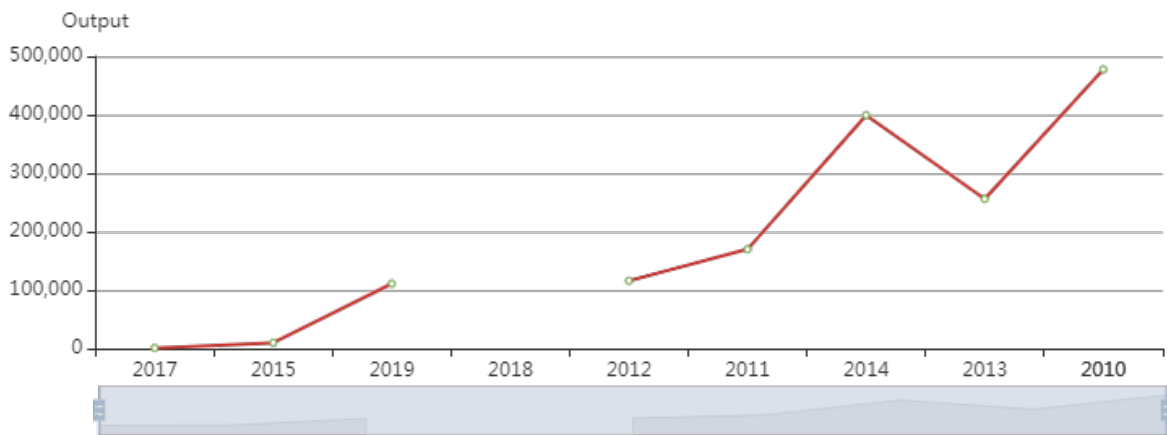

Time and again, we see TV dramas that register low scores on Douban and end up being box office failures.

On Douban, TV viewers can end up seeing negative comments about TV dramas they're thinking of watching, and it's becoming increasingly hard to score highly on the platform.

Here are the ten TV dramas with the high scores and popularity on Douban. It is worth noting more domestic dramas gain high scores this year, a reflection on the fast development China's TV industry has gone through
